

It is of great importance to me that the media is as diverse as possible and current trends seem to point in the opposite direction. Unlike monopoly in other areas which allow single companies to control prices, media monopolies restrict our access to unbiased information, which in my opinion should be by far more important.